this Congress were to convene and adjourn in the wake of what happened in the election of 2000 in this country and not step up to the plate and offer the kind of assistance our jurisdictions so desperately need. For those reasons, I thank the leader for his comments, and I vield to my colleague from New York.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, we are out of time under the unanimous consent agreement. I ask unanimous consent that we not enter into recess until we have accommodated the remarks of the Senator from New York and the Senator from Idaho.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I will be very brief because I know we have other business to do. I thank the majority leader, who I know has to get over to the Democratic caucus, for his wonderful leadership on so many issues. This is a man who believes strongly in so many things, including the right to vote. I say to the majority leader, Senator Dodd has done a superb job. He has had the patience of Job and the persistence of whatever Biblical character was very persistent.

We are all proud of the job he has done. His leadership in bringing up this issue as soon as we can come up with a compromise, or next year if, God forbid, we cannot, is vital to America.

I wish to add one point, aside from my thanks to the Senator from Connecticut, our chairman of the Rules Committee, for doing such a great job on this. I have been proud to be working with him. My point is this: He made an excellent point, that we almost have forgotten about, the wrenching agony we all went through, whatever party, a year ago last November. There is one point that, if anything, September 11 should increase our ardor and our fervor to bring forward a good bill, hopefully a bipartisan bill. The terrorists hate our right to vote. They want a group of religious leaders controlling everything and not letting people make any determination.

The beauty of America is we can vote, and our job as Senators, our job as citizens, is to perfect that right so nothing stands in the way. Unfortunately, too much stands in the way. Usually not by design but, rather, because we have not paid attention. Malfeasance, we are going to correct that.

The Senator from Connecticut has taken on a great leadership role and brought together Senator McConnell and Senator BOND and myself in hours and hours of painstaking meetings. We talked today. We are willing to move in the direction necessary to get a bill. It is heartening to know we will be voting and debating on this issue in this Congress, if not this year, no matter what happens. I just pledge myself to the Senator from Connecticut to follow his leadership to continue those efforts because the issue of the right to vote, the ability to vote, the enfranchisement of RECESS SUBJECT TO THE CALL OF all Americans, no matter how rich, poor, or of whatever race, there is no higher duty.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I thank our colleague for his remarks. I note again our staffs are working. I want these remarks to be seen as constructive and positive. We appreciate immensely the work being conducted by my friend from Kentucky and my friend from Missouri and their staffs who have spent a lot of time on this issue. It has not gone smoothly. It has had its ups and downs. It has been a roller coaster ride. I hope when the process is over, sooner rather than later, we will present the Senate a bill for which they can be proud.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho.

CHRISTMAS EVE IN THE SENATE

Mr. CRAIG. Senator BOND and Senator McConnell are not in the Chamber. I know their work with the Senator from Connecticut is dedicated to the end we all want to see in reform because there is an obsolescence to the voting system that has to be addressed. I think that is without question. I guess my only frustration by the majority leader's comments was earlier this week he talked about bringing a farm bill to the Senate. We now have a railroad retirement bill. We still have appropriations to do, and several conference reports coming out of that, and we hope yet a stimulus package now that we know America truly is in a recession. We have known that for some time, but it is now officially proclaimed.

Not in any way to lessen the importance of a debate over election reform, and that is important, I cannot yet quite understand how we get all of this done in time to get out for Christmas.

Before the Thanksgiving recess, I had offered Senator Boxer of California an opportunity to join with me-she from the Democratic side. I from the Republican side—to organize Christmas caroling for the Senate so we could join together in unity, as we have for the last several weeks, and sing Christmas carols on the eve of Christmas.

I suggest if we are going to do election reform, if we are going to do a stimulus package, if we are going to do a farm bill, and I add an energy bill because I think right now energy is every bit as important to the American consumer as election reform is to the American voter, and let us see what else is on that schedule—oh, yes, I forgot, railroad retirement reform—then it is going to be a merry little Christmas in Washington for all Senators who cannot make it out the night before to their home States. My State is about 2,500 miles further away than the Senator from Connecticut. So I say to Senator Dodd, have yourself a very merry little Christmas.

THE CHAIR

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

There being no objection, the Senate at 4:48 p.m., recessed subject to the call of the Chair and reassembled at 5:30 p.m. when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. REID).

THE SENATE SCHEDULE

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President. we have just completed our caucus. I know the Republicans were caucusing. I am not sure whether they have completed or not. I want to report to the Senate about our current circumstances and what the schedule might be for the remainder of the week.

Senator Lott and I have been discussing the current schedule and our circumstances involving the railroad retirement bill. My hope is that we can move to proceed to the bill sometime within the next hour. If that is the case, it is my intention to file cloture on the bill at some point this evening.

It is also my intention that we seek unanimous consent to vote on cloture on Monday. We will not be in session on Saturday, but we will be on Monday. We will also entertain amendments. It is my understanding that Senator LOTT may be recognized to offer an amendment, and we will have a debate on that amendment tomorrow and on Monday.

My expectation is that there will not be any votes tonight or tomorrow but that we will have votes on Monday at approximately 5 o'clock.

Senator MURRAY reports to me that the Transportation conference report has now been completed, and it is my hope that we can vote on the Transportation conference report perhaps as early as Monday. If not Monday, then on Tuesday. My hope is that if we can achieve cloture on the railroad retirement bill on Monday, we can bring debate on the bill to a close by Wednesday.

It is then my intention, as I have said on several occasions, to make a motion to proceed to the farm bill. That is a must-pass piece of legislation. It is my hope and expectation that we can complete our work on that, maybe even as early as the end of next week.

I also note that we have made the decision over the course of the last few hours, and in consultation with Senator Lott as well as our caucus, that we will be in session and voting the week of December 10. That has been an open question until now. But we have now made that decision. Our expectation is we will be voting every day the week after next. Senators ought to be on hand and prepared to vote all week. Of course, it may be that we will have
